

Hurricane Veers Slowly from Coast---Midwest Heat Eases

FLYING THROUGH HEART of the hurricane raging toward the Georgia-Carolina coast from southeast, International News Photos staffer Chris Hansen, on duty as a naval reservist, made this unusual picture. Directly ahead of the plane, which has already penetrated the hurricane's swirling currents, is a cumulus nimbus, or huge thunderhead. Dark strip at bottom is the Atlantic. (International)

HATTERAS, N. C., Aug. 31—(AP)—The threat of a tropical hurricane to the North Carolina-Virginia coast appeared to have lessened today.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the storm is "apparently recurring slowly and is moving north-north-eastward," which would be away from land.

This battered down area, however, was still endangered by steadily mounting winds and pounding seas as it caught the edge of the recurring hurricane.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in a 4 A. M. (EST) advisory from Miami said "winds will continue to increase on the North Carolina capes, reaching gale force this morning and probably near hurricane force late this morning or this afternoon."

The advisory centered the storm at approximately 140 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, advancing at about 8 to 10 miles per hour.

"Present indications are that the storm will continue to turn slowly to a more northeasterly track with increase in forward speed today and pass to the open sea east of Cape Hatteras," the advisory added.

Intensity of winds near the hurricane's center was estimated at 115 miles per hour and covering an area with a radius of 50 to 60 miles. Gales extend over a radius of about 140 miles, the bureau advised.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 31—(AP)—Another hurricane appears to be brewing in the Atlantic some 300 miles east of Martinique, a French Island in the Lesser Antilles, the storm warning service reported today.

A steamship, the Benjamin Greigson, told the Weather Bureau here that she passed through winds of 50 to 60 miles an hour and extremely rough seas for seven hours ending at 10 P. M. last night.

"A navy hurricane hunter plane has been sent to investigate," said Grady Norton, chief forecaster here. "The ship went through pretty rough stuff which indicates a fast developing storm."

The breeding ground of the new storm is some 400 miles south of the area where the hurricane now off Cape Hatteras sprang up.

MIDWEST HEAT EASES

CHICAGO, Aug. 31—(AP)—Temperatures headed for near normal levels over parts of the nation's heat belt today but readings in the 90's again were in prospect for many areas.

The intense heat of more than a week was broken over most of the Great Lakes region, the New England states and sections of the eastern seaboard. But hot and humid conditions in the central plains, west gully states and the southeastern states.

The mercury dropped into the 40's and 50's in parts of the cooler belt during the early morning hours. Cadillac, Mich., reported a reading of 45, as the cool air from Canada spread out over the Great Lakes district. In New England and the eastern states, the mercury was in the 50's, including 51 at Rumford, Me., and 59 at Syracuse, N. Y.

Blistering heat extended over the western Dakotas and eastern Montana yesterday. A high of 105 was reported at Miles City, Mont., 104 at Philips, S. D., and Chadron, N. D., and 97 at Bismarck, N. D. (Please Turn to Page Two)

BLOCKADE CONFAB HELD

Draft Board Registers 87 During Monday

First Two Men in Their Classes Are Veterans

On the first day for registering under the selective service act, 87 Fayette County men registered as required by law. From 8 A. M. until 3 P. M. Monday the office of the Fayette County Selective Service Board, No. 38, was a very busy place.

Part of the time four registrars were on duty, and as a result all who applied during the day were registered.

The first person to register was Forest Robert McAllister, Washington C. H., R. D. 1 farmer and a former member of the U. S. Air Force. He was born in 1926.

The first registrant of the 1922 group was Willard H. Keller, 812 E. Temple Street.

Keller also is a veteran.

It was pointed out by the board that persons reporting for registration on days other than those designated for the various age groups, must wait their turns until the proper age group has been registered.

The board here has received the following telegram:

"National Guard members 18 through 28 must register. The June 24, 1948, date as to training and service deferred by governor's proclamation."

Voluntary assistants in the registering Monday were Miss Mary Ann Story and Miss Patti Persinger.

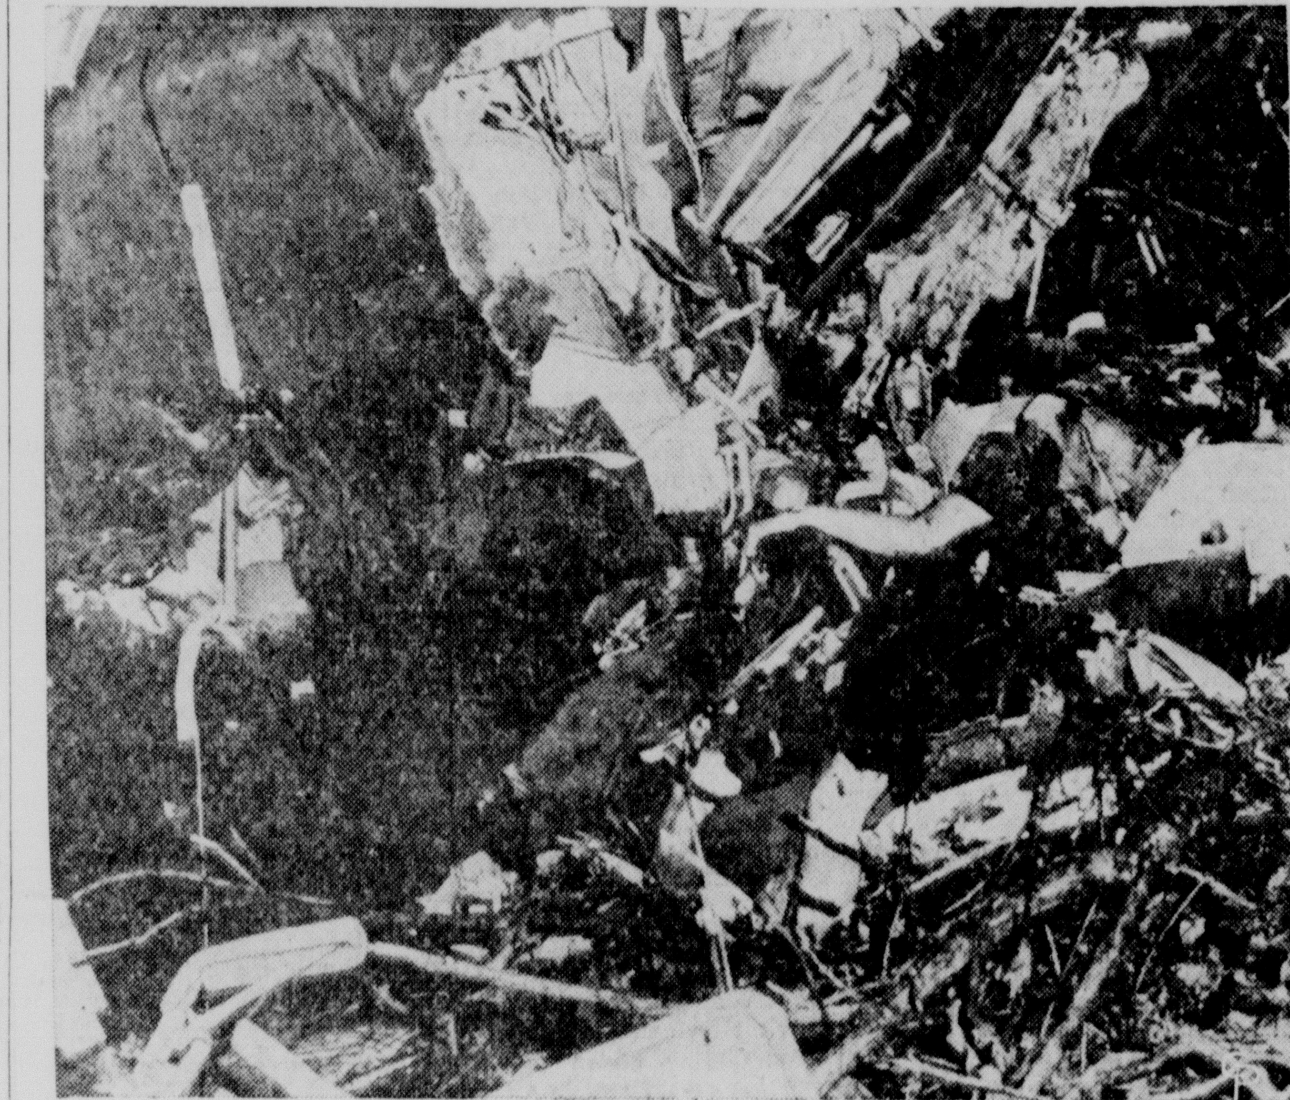

Now 24-Year-Olds

It was the 24-year-olds' turn today to step up and be counted for the peacetime draft.

Like their older brothers who registered yesterday they will get down answers to 15 questions, then wait to see if they will be included in the army's first call of 10,000 men in November.

But not until some nine and a half million men 18 through 25 have filled out the questionnaires by September 19 will selective service officials be able to complete the job of classifying this vast collection of American youth.

Most of the 25-year-olds and those registering today and tomorrow are expected to be included in the exempt section because of previous service or dependency (Please Turn to Page Two)

LIGHTNING OR A TORNADO may have caused a Northwest Airlines plane to crash on a Mississippi river bluff near Winona, Minn., investigators say as they study preliminary reports of the mishap in which 33 passengers and a crew of three perished. This picture shows some of the bodies twisted in the wreckage. (International Soundphoto)

Crash Cause Being Sought In Wreckage

WINONA, Minn., Aug. 31—(AP)—Investigators sought today to determine whether lightning caused the fatal crash Sunday of a Northwest Airlines passenger plane during a severe electrical and wind storm.

Thirty-seven persons including three crew members died as the Minneapolis-to-Chicago plane, a Martin 2-0-2, cracked up in a wooded ravine on a Mississippi river bluff at nearby Fountain City, Wis. Last of the bodies were removed yesterday.

Howard Rackow, a farmer, told Coroner Henry F. Stohr at Fountain City that he saw lightning strike the plane "and the ship started down." A neighbor, Mrs. Charles Guenther, reported she saw pieces of the liner falling before it plummeted into the ravine.

As NWA officials and Civil Aeronautics Board investigators combed the twisted debris for clues, the airline ordered a rigid inspection of its remaining 24 Martin 2-0-2s before further takeoffs.

NWA said that while the Martins are undergoing examination, other types of planes will be used temporarily.

The company said preliminary investigation gave no reason to believe structural or mechanical failure caused the crash.

Child Drowns in Pool

CINCINNATI, Aug. 31—(AP)—Theresa Fellingner, 18 months old, was drowned yesterday in a shallow play pool at the rear of her home in Norwood.

Wallace Undeterred By Shower of Eggs

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 31—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, his southern campaign trail slashed with raw eggs and ripe tomatoes, marched on today toward more segregation troubles.

"We shall go on," Wallace said through a staff member who reported the progressive party's presidential nominee's determination to continue his tour of the south.

Charlotte and Asheville were the major points on the schedule today.

Charge of Murder Now Faces Ohio Man

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 31—(AP)—Provincial police announced last night that Gustav Wiegner, 24, of Dayton, Ohio, has been charged with the Alaska Highway slaying of John McComas, 32, of Dayton.

Inspector Carl Ledoux has gone to Kimball, Neb., from Dawson Creek, B. C., to serve a murder warrant on Wiegner.

Police said if extradition proceedings are waived Wiegner may be tried in British Columbia within two months.

McComas' body, mangled by wolves, was found in northern British Columbia. Wiegner said he accidentally shot his companion during a squirrel hunt.

Wiegner was picked up in Bushnell, Neb., along with Louise McComas, 13-year-old daughter of the victim. Both are being held in Kimball.

day—his third day in this state—with stops at a number of smaller cities en route.

Charlotte's police chief, Frank N. Littlejohn, promised jail for anyone who threw anything at Wallace here during his speech from the courthouse steps.

Angry and Disappointed

Although determined to continue, the former secretary of agriculture from Iowa displayed anger and disappointment yesterday as he was pelted with eggs and ripe tomatoes and prevented by boo's and catcalls from delivering his messages.

Stopped entirely from speaking and splashed with debris at Burlington, Wallace grasped a bystander by the arm as he turned to his car.

"Am I an American?" he asked. "Get your hands off me," the unidentified man growled and gave the candidate a slight push.

Again at Greensboro, his clothes stained with egg yolk and a shell sticking to his head, Wallace cried:

"I don't mind being hit by eggs and tomatoes, but they would be more useful being fed to children."

"The faces I have seen distorted by hatred are of people for whom I have in my heart profound compassion, because most of them have not enough to eat."

There was laughter and more boo's.

At High Point, eggs and tomatoes again were hurled.

And at last night's rally at Winston-Salem, Wallace was booed long and lustily as he stood in the rain and attacked the Marshall Plan, declaring:

"Only with an understanding with Russia can we avoid another war. We (the Progressives) are fighting on the side of the Lord."

The crowd estimated at 2,500—about three-fourths of them Negroes—set up opposing charges of "we want Wallace" and "down with Wallace" at one time during his speech. The party's gubernatorial nominee, Miss Mary Price, could not be heard above the boo's as she introduced Wallace.

Military Chiefs Get Together at Berlin Meeting

Kremlin Discussions Laid Groundwork for Current Attempt

BERLIN, Aug. 31—(AP)—Russian and Western military governors of Germany met for an hour today on east-west problems in blockaded Berlin.

"We will meet again," said Gen. Sir Brian Robertson of Britain, "the date, however, still is not fixed."

It was the first top level meeting in Berlin for five months and resulted from diplomatic discussions in the Kremlin for the past month.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. military governor, said "there will be a top level meeting tomorrow." This did not necessarily mean a meeting of the governors themselves.

Asked if the conference was amicable, an American official official responded:

"It depends on what you call amicable."

Robertson said there will be no official statement today. American officials said financial experts of the four powers will continue to confer on technical financial problems.

Four weeks of negotiations in Moscow thus far have failed to iron out a satisfactory (and face saving) device by which the west might agree to a conference and Russians to lift their blockade.

By unilateral control of this city's currency, the Russians could turn Berlin into a Soviet satellite. Their proposals up to the time of breaking off of negotiations here would have given them the power to remove members of the city administration who displeased them. Also, it would have been possible under Soviet proposals to put any firm in the city out of business if the firm did not go along with Russian instructions.

LONDON, Aug. 31—(AP)—Premier Marshal Tito tightened his grip on Yugoslavia today, promising to greater power his trusted governmental and party lieutenants, Edward Kardelj and Alexander Rankovic.

Stanoje Simic, the non-Communist foreign minister, was replaced.

Vice Premier Kardelj was promoted from chairman of the control commission to foreign minister.

Rankovic, who heads Yugoslav police, now becomes a vice premier. He remains interior minister.

Kardelj and Rankovic were singled out with Tito by the Russian-dominated Cominform as arch foes of the Moscow line in Yugoslavia.

The shifts were announced in a decree of the ruling presidium of the Yugoslav National Assembly, which put into effect a "reconstruction of the Yugoslav government." The decree was broadcast from Belgrade by Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency.

ATHENS, Aug. 31—(AP)—News-papers said today Yugoslavia has started internecine guerrillas of Markos Vafiades as they flee before the Greek Army drive.

If true, this would mean another Yugoslav defiance of Moscow as a result of the Cominform attacks on Yugoslav help to the Greek Communist leader after the quarrel started between Tito and the Cominform. He said the international report is quite possibly true.

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

Probably several dozen passers by noticed the two English cars which were parked briefly on Court Street Thursday afternoon.

They were on their way from New York City to Louisville, Ky., where they will be displayed at the Atkinson Motors. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Atkinson of Louisville were doing the driving.

The brightest of the two was a little yellow convertible the English call the Sportsman MG. With the wheel on the left, large spoked wheels and smaller tires than the average American car the little sportsman stood with the top of its canvass about the height of a man's chest. A four cylinder motor gets 35 miles to the gallon and 125 miles an-hour top speed, Atkinson said.

The price: $2650 in Louisville.

The other, the Sunbeam Talbot, also lighter than the American cars was an enclosed grey sedan. It has four cylinders, a left hand drive and gets more than 35 miles to the gallon. This little job carries 5-25-16 tires and has lines a lot like some 1949 American models. It is one of 17 Sunbeam Talbots that have gone to dealers all over the United States, and is probably the only one in this area, Atkinson said. Delivered in Louisville, it is $3650.

Other models carried by the Atkinsons are the Comar, Humber, Hellman Minx, and the Bentley with a Rolls Royce Engine. They run from $1750 for the Comar to $13,000 for the Bentley, a custom built car.

Republic Steel Co. Puts Pressure on K-F

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31—(AP)—Republic Steel Corp. advised its customers today it will continue to supply pig iron only so long as it retains operation of the government-owned blast furnace in Cleveland.

Under no circumstances does the steel firm plan to build new facilities in the next eight months to make up for the loss if the furnace is given to someone else, said Republic President C. M. White.

White presented his views in a telegram to War Assets Administrator Jess Larson. Copies of the telegram, he said, were being sent to all his company's 400-odd foundry customers.

Shortly after Republic signed a sub-lease last week with Kaiser-Frazer Corp. to operate the furnace until May 1, 1949, White went on, Larson issued a statement, saying:

"With the time which this agreement will permit, I believe Republic will erect facilities which will permit it to continue to serve its customers."

Such is by no means Republic's understanding of the agreement, White told Larson.

Death Catches Up After 40 Years

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 31—(AP)—Archie Herron, who spent 40 years in New Jersey state prison under sentence of death, is dead.

The "forgotten man" of the prison died last night at the age of 89. Twice he survived sentences to die in the electric chair because of a legal quirk resulting from the death of the judge who sentenced him.

Herron was convicted in 1908 of the murder of the Rev. S. B. D. Prickett, one-time police recorder of Metuchen.

Fair Clears $5,301; Improvements Planned

Financial Report Is Made to Directors Who Then Lay Out Extensive Program

The Fayette County Fair cleared $5,301.83 this year—and already, less than a month after the gates closed, the board of directors has mapped out a program to put all of that and more too right back in permanent improvements.

The financial report was made by Frank E. Ellis, the secretary, to the directors at their first post-Fair meeting Monday night.

He emphasized that while the report was "essentially complete," it was "unofficial" and that a few more small bills might turn up yet. But, for all practical purposes, $5,301.83 was left after this year's Fair.

No sooner had the report been made, than the directors started outlining the improvement program. It was apparent from the speed with which it was taken up that most of it had been in contemplation for some time.

Highlights of the program are: Blacktop surface for the main driveway from the front gate through the grounds and on out to the gate, on the Leesburg Pike;

A permanent concrete platform in the centerfield across from grandstand for night shows;

A 40-pen addition to the hog barn built three years ago.

These three parts of the program were approved. Several others were discussed and indications now are that some of them will be undertaken this year or next.

A barn for the 4-H club livestock is being seriously considered and so is the growing problem of additional parking space.

The new show stage, under plans approved at Monday night's meeting, is to have a canvas top and detachable frame walls that would make it a sort of stage. It also would serve as a "band shell" for the music during the races. The canvas canopy and detachable sidewalls would be taken down during the races so as not to obstruct the back stretch view.

The hog barns, it was brought out at the meeting, was "totally inadequate" for the exhibits this year. The addition or new barn would add 40 pens. The old sheds "on the hill" hold 72 pens and the barn built about three years ago has 72. The enlargement would provide 188 pens—which the directors hope will be enough for a time, at least.

The directors held their meeting in the secretary's office on the grounds following a steak dinner at Herb's Yum-Yum Drive-in Restaurant.

All told, $38,807.43 was taken in at this year's Fair. Expenses amounted to $33,505.60.

The gate was the big source of income—$13,085.75. The grandstand admissions and privilege fees were neck and neck for second position.

The shows and rides brought in $2,098.36 as well as served as a magnet for the crowds.

Youth Killed in Crash Of Stolen Car—One Held

WOODSFIELD, Aug. 31—(AP)—Donald E. Sowers, 18, of Crooksville, was killed yesterday when a stolen car failed to make a curve east of here and plunged into an embankment. Highway patrol officers said James Perry, 17, of Cheshire, Gallia County, was arrested on a stolen car charge.

Perry, uninjured, was riding with Sowers; the patrol said. Sheriff Clarence Crawford said the car was stolen at Caldwell.

Murder Knife Still Hunted

LIMA, Aug. 31—(AP)—Police today continued a search for the weapon used in the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Eloise Snyder, 26-year-old housewife.

Mrs. Snyder was found stabbed through the heart Sunday morning in a parked car at a gasoline bulk plant on the northwest edge of the city. Police reported no trace of the knife used by the killer had been found despite a thorough search of the neighborhood.

Questioning of residents in the neighborhood also was continued. One resident reported seeing two cars near the plant at 3 A. M. Sunday. Another reported seeing two cars parked near the plant at 11:30 P. M. Saturday. Residents said, however, their suspicions were not aroused because the isolated area was known as a "lover's lane."

The decision to ask voters for a new Court House was reached last night by an advisory committee named by Common Pleas Judge Marion B. Owens and the county commissioner.

Rain Cuts Crowd at State Fair But Quick Comeback Expected

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31—(AP)—Ohio State Fair officials looked for fair weather today to put the annual show back in a record-breaking class. Yesterday's rain cut paid attendance to 42,486 compared to 55,128 last year.

Today's program was packed. It was State Fair Manager's Day, Ohio Fair Managers' Association Day, Typical Farm Family Day, and 50-Year State Fair Veterans' Day.

One of the high-spots of the program is the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Junior Fair in America. The ceremony is scheduled at the bandstand where fair notables will pay tribute to the farm youth program. The first Junior Fair was held in Ashley, O., in connection with the Ashley Fair.

R. B. Warner, now superintendent of schools at Ashley, is the man credited with doing the most to establish the junior division. Today Warner is special guest of the fair and will be introduced during the ceremony. Myers Y. Cooper, former governor, will present a plaque to the Ashley Fair Board.

Girl Admits Setting Mystery Fires

MACOMB, Ill., Aug. 31—(AP)—More than 100 fires on the Charles Valley farm, the origin of which baffled scientists and experts for nearly two weeks, were set by a 13-year-old member of the family, a deputy state fire marshal said yesterday.

John Burgard, the deputy, said the girl, Womet McNeil, told authorities she touched off the fires when other family members

"weren't watching me." Burgard said Womet told him she set the first because she wanted to be sent to live with her divorced mother, Mrs. Leona Eagle of Bloomington, Ill.

Womet and her brother, Arthur Jr., 8, were placed in the custody of their father, Arthur McNeil, when their parents were divorced in 1943. McNeil and the children have been living with the Willeys.

Mrs. Willey is McNeil's sister.

Burgard said the girl told him she reasoned that if she burned down the houses used by her father and her aunt and uncle, she would have to be sent to her mother.

The rash of blazes attracted nationwide attention. They led to speculation that the flames were caused by radio-activity, gas, fly spray or roach paste.

BY MAX HALL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(P)—Strange things have happened in this country's political history.

Two years ago a man was elected to the Senate and the House of Representatives on the same day. The man was John Sparkman of Alabama and the date was Nov. 5, 1946.

In 1932, John Nance Garner of Texas was elected to the House of Representatives and the presidency of the United States on the same day.

James A. Garfield of Ohio was a member of the House, a Senator-elect, and president-elect of the United States—at one and the same time.

Garfield resigned from the House, declined the Senate seat, became president and was assassinated four months later.

Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, within a period of eight weeks in 1913, was a U. S. representative, governor of his state, and U. S. Senator.

For entire year, 1946 James M. Curley was mayor of Boston and a U. S. representative at the same time.

It is not unusual for politicians to be elected to one office while holding another. But unlike Curley they usually resign the first office before assuming the duties of the second.

Sometimes they delay the change, however.

Huey P. Long was elected to the Senate in 1930 for the term beginning March 4, 1931. But he wanted to keep on being governor of Louisiana. He finally resigned as governor on Jan. 25, 1932, and took the oath as Senator on the same date.

Sparkman of Alabama, so far as he knows (and so far as I know,) is the only man in history to be elected to both Houses of Congress on the same day.

Sparkman's dual election happened as follows:

In the primary election of May, 1946, he won the Democratic nomination for re-election to his House seat. In June, Senator John Bankhead of Alabama died. A special primary was held July 30, and Sparkman won the Democratic nomination for the Senate vacancy. The general election was set for Nov. 5. The Republicans entered a candidate for Sparkman's House seat. If Sparkman had withdrawn from the House election and left a vacancy on the ballot, the Republican would have won by default. From the viewpoint of Alabama Democrats, that was unthinkable. So Sparkman left his name in both races and won both. Then he resigned from the House, forcing a special election in which some other Democrat could get on the ballot.

Though it may not show up in the official records, Sparkman held office simultaneously in the House and Senate for ten days.

He officially became a senator on Nov. 6 the day after the election. He resigned his House seat on Nov. 16, after being formally certified the winner of the two elections. But he resigned "as of" Nov. 5, and that date will appear in the record books.

Garner, after being elected vice-president and re-elected to the House (both on Nov. 8, 1932), resigned his House seat as of March 3, 1933, and took the oath as vice-president on March 4.

Here is the explanation of James A. Garfield's unique experience:

This Ohio Republican had been a U. S. representative for years. On Jan. 13, 1880, the Ohio legislature elected him to the U. S. Senate for the term beginning March 4, 1881. But on Nov. 4, 1880, he was elected president.

He resigned from the House Nov. 8, 1880. He formally declined the Senate seat on Dec. 23, 1880. He was inaugurated president on March 4, 1881.

Robinson had been a U. S. representative since 1903. He was elected governor of Arkansas on Sept. 9, 1912. He resigned from the House on Jan. 14, 1913, and became governor on Jan. 16.

Only 12 days later he was elected to the Senate to fill an unexpired term. He resigned as governor on March 8 and took the oath as senator on March 10.

Draft Regulations and Hasty Marriages

While Fayette County showed no unusual or marked increase in the number of marriages within the past month, discussion has been aroused in many other places about the effects on the military conscription situation of an apparent marriage rush by young persons, presumably resulting from absence of a deadline date in regulations deferring married men from the draft.

Some have said it is not fair that any young man should be deferred just because he can find a girl willing to marry him quickly. Others have expressed fears that the available supply of young men subject to draft will be unduly depleted because of the increased marriage rate. Draft regulations can be changed easily by presidential order, however, which would make hastily inspired marriages ineffective from the viewpoint of exempting newly married men from military service.

Of much greater concern is the future effect on society of any substantial number of marriages inspired or hastened by thought of escaping the draft. A marriage readily entered into as a matter of convenience may be just as readily abandoned when convenience indicates the latter course.

A "draft marriage" might be expected to require as a minimum even less of the normal foundation for a sound and happy marriage than the "war marriage." Large numbers of such marriages now could mean a future contribution to the problems arising from instability in the home.

Such social problems perhaps do not appear to be within the province of those who make the regulations for military conscription. But if the social function of the existing home is given consideration in planning draft deferments, why should not foreseeable future social problems also be considered?

Local Officials Cooperate

One very noticeable factor which has enhanced the efficiency of the efforts of both the police department of this city and the county sheriff's office has been the complete cooperation which has existed during the present administration of both offices.

There has been a spirit of prompt and willing helpfulness by each group toward the other. This has worked out most satisfactorily and in a number of cases which recently have claimed the attention of law enforcement officers here, this fine cooperation has resulted in the quick catch of some perpetrator of crime or early completion of some other activity in the line of duty by either or both departments.

There was a time when a certain amount of jealousy existed between these two departments, just as is the case in many cities and counties. Here, however, this is not true in recent years. Furthermore each head of his department and all assistants under him, speak well of the members of the other department. That's really something.

The new two-way radios placed in police department and sheriff's cars have been a great help also. The quick calls for help thus sent from cars out on any kind of a "chase" of a wanted individual, have been productive of aid which made an arrest a sure thing in several cases.

The records of both the sheriff's office and the city police department show definitely the value of such relations between the two as now exist.

Similar relations are maintained with the city and county law enforcement officers of neighboring counties. It's a condition to be commended.

New Tax Idea

One large city has dropped temporarily a project to establish a $5 use tax on automobiles, and a $10 tax for trucks. This scheme may fairly be called "not dead, but sleeping."

While no tax would be more unpopular, none would be easier to collect. Besides much of it would fall on suburbanites who cannot vote in the big city, and whose opposition would not be dangerous. Look for the plan to revive, and in other cities as well.

Just Same Old Stuff in News, Eh!

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John Q. Citizen unbuttoned his shirt, loosened his belt, eased himself into a chair, and began reading his afternoon paper while Mrs. Citizen prepared supper.

Subconsciously, he carried on a silent commentary as he read, a habit that had grown with the years:

Hmmm... some barbers wanting $1.25 a haircut... not worth it with this little fringe I've got left... I shouldn't pay more than 50 cents... they can make money at 50 cents on me... wonder how much a barber makes a day... takes about 20 minutes for a haircut... three haircuts an hour for eight hours makes 24 haircuts a day at $1.25 each... but I don't suppose they average that much...

Glad that flying boat made it to Chicago... imagine it! 4748 miles in 24 hours and 2 minutes from Hawaii... now there's a place I'd like to see one of these days... fellow told me even the men out there wear flowers draped around their necks and nobody thinks anything of it... sort of a local custom... I wonder if all the races get along as well together as he said they do... we could use a little more spirit of that kind over here...

Well, that fellow Tito is into a row with Hungary now... he's got his dander up and it looks like he's not going to be pushed around... looks like Stalin has got a problem there... this story says "responsible state officials of Hungary have been pursuing a campaign against Yugoslavia and Yugoslav peoples which is in full contradiction to the agreement of friendship, cooperation and mutual aid between Yugoslavia and Hungary"... I could say it in fewer words... I'd say "you've been telling lies about me and I don't like it, see, and you'd better shut up before I box you one"... Funny thing about those two Russian biologists who were fired because their views on heredity and environment didn't agree with the official Communist party views... imagine two American biologists being fired because they didn't agree with the Democrats' or Republicans' theories on biology... what a laugh if the American academy of Sciences kicked out a couple of its members for that reason... I wonder if the Russian people laugh, too, when they think no one is looking...

Golly! 124,000 gallons of beer dumped at Red Bluff, Calif., on a federal judge's order... looks like there should have been some way to save it... let's see... that's about 1,322,600 cans of beer at 15 cents a can... worth about $198,390 in the can... and that reminds me... I could use a cold beer right now...

Same Old Stuff
Later, Mr. Citizen sat at supper with his wife.
"Anything in the news, dear?" she asked.
"Not much," he grunted. "Same old stuff."

Communism and Christianity

By George E. Sokolsky

The essential struggle in Europe is between two different conceptions of man's existence upon the earth and his relationship to all that is. Christianity relates man to God and emphasizes moral law, the obligation of man to live under divine inspiration and by properties which are inherent in divine revelation. Marxism assumes the biologic view that man, a collection of cells, is what he is by chance, and adds that not only is his nature but his conduct determined by his environment. Man therefore is dissociated from morality but must be obedient to the state, which is an essential part of his environment.

Protestant Christianity has, for a prolonged period, since the biologic evangelism of Thomas Huxley, struggled to find a bridge between theology and the ever-changing postulates of science. Much of Protestantism, during the past half century, has been pushed away from religion to social science, from moral law toward reform of the laws of man, from God toward the immediate environment.

The conferences of the Episcopalians at Lambeth and of all Protestant churches at Amsterdam give a revived tone to Protestant Christianity, for at both conferences God ceased to be a formalistic deity to be ritualized and forgotten in the maelstrom of current affairs; rather he is restored as the be-all of existence, the divine intelligence without whose sanction man truly becomes the beast Marxians conceive him to be.

I was particularly moved by the lofty address of John Foster Dulles at Amsterdam. Europeans undoubtedly wondered what manner of man Governor Dewey has chosen to be his secretary of state. At Amsterdam, they met a philosopher cognizant of his great responsibilities, willing to accept for America a moral leadership in the struggle to save western civilization. Dulles diagnosed the disease of our age in these words:

"This is a time for the churches to expose the evil of war and its futility. Many are talking about war as though it were an unpleasant, but necessary, remedy for existing ills. The fact is that another world war would engulf all humanity in utter misery and make almost impossible the achievement of the good ends for which, no doubt, the combatants would profess to be fighting. At times, war may have to be risked as the lesser of two evils. But there is no holy war.

"War is evil. Over the ages violence had repeatedly been invoked for noble ends. That method is dramatic and exciting. It seems to promise quick and

Early Diagnosis Aid in Treatment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
INFLUENZAL meningitis is a cruel disease which, for the most part, attacks babies and young children. In former years the disease was nearly always fatal and even in the rare instances where it did not kill its victims, it crippled by causing extensive damage to the brain.

Today, if the condition is diagnosed early, life can be saved. This has been made possible by the use of new drugs such as the sulfonamides and streptomycin.

Early Symptoms
Unfortunately, the earliest symptoms of this dread disorder seem very innocent so that the child shows evidence of nothing more dangerous than a running nose and sore throat. At other times it may be preceded by tonsillitis or pneumonia. When the meningitis develops, there is some disturbance of consciousness, ranging from drowsiness to stupor, a temperature varying from 100 to 104 degrees, and there may be some stiffness of the neck, and convulsions. When the fluid from the spinal canal is examined, it is found that there is a great increase in the number of white blood cells in it, as well as an increase in the amount of protein. The influenza germ responsible for the condition is also found in the spinal fluid. The influenza bacillus or germ is not to be confused with the influenza virus. It is the virus that causes the ordinary attack of "flu" or "grippe." The number of white cells in the blood is also increased.

During the early stages of the disease, the brain is seldom harmed to any great extent. After the second week, however, more damage may occur.

It would appear that streptomycin is the most effective treatment for this disease. Of course, the drug is most effective when it is given early. Hence, prompt diagnosis is important in order that permanent brain damage may be warded off.

There is a rabbit serum which also seems to be helpful in this condition.

While some physicians still like to give serum and streptomycin by injections into the spinal canal, many others have obtained excellent results in the treatment of influenza meningitis by not giving any injections into the spinal canal. These doctors inject the streptomycin into a muscle, and the serum is given by vein. The sulfonamide drug is given by mouth if the patient is conscious or by vein if he is not.

Diagnosis Difficult
Since victims of influenza meningitis are usually so young as to be unable to describe their symptoms, the diagnosis may be difficult to make. If after a respiratory infection such things as drowsiness and fever develop, or there are other signs of disturbance of the nervous system, the possibility of influenza meningitis must be kept in mind and an examination of the spinal fluid carried out in order to make a definite diagnosis.

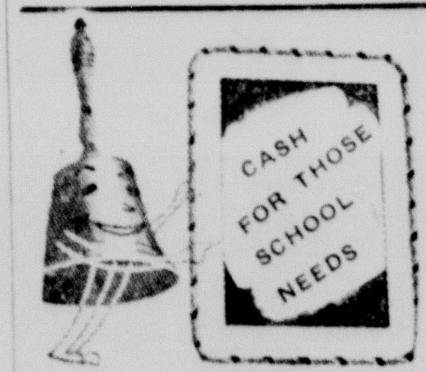

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Y. R.: Why does hair grow on the face? Is it due to face creams?
Answer: The exact cause of superfluous hair is not known. It may be due to some disturbance of the glands of internal secretion. The use of face creams does not cause a growth of superfluous hair. Superfluous hair may be removed successfully with an electric needle if not too much hair is present.

Low Cost Switches Latest in Wiring

NEW YORK—(AP)—A new wiring system, designed to reduce the amount of expensive electrical work in homes by putting all switches on a low voltage bell-cord hook-up, has been developed by the General Electric Company. It is claimed to minimize fire hazards and reduce the amount of heavy conduits to those leading only directly to lighting fixtures and outlets. Wall switches merely operate magnetic master switches at each outlet, so that the wiring to and from all switches can be as light as ordinary battery-operated doorbell systems.

The economy of installation of this remote control wiring is expected to increase the number of

United Europe Constitution To Be Discussed by Planners At Convention in Switzerland

BY ERNEST FISCHER
GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 31.—(P)—The first parliament of the United States of Europe will be held at Interlaken, Switzerland (Sept. 1-4) under the presidency of Georges Bohy, socialist member of the Belgian cabinet.

Count Richard Coudenhove-Kalergi, secretary general of the European parliamentary union, told a recent news conference in Geneva that the purpose of the Interlaken meeting were:

1. To urge immediate convocation of a constituent assembly for Europe, elected by the national parliaments to draft a federal constitution of Europe.

2. To reach an agreement upon the main principles of this constitution.

The idea of a constituent assembly was launched at the first European parliamentary Congress last September in Gstaad, Switzerland, where Coudenhove-Kalergi maintains headquarters of the organization. Most delegates to this year's session, Coudenhove-Kalergi said, were elected by the national committees of the European parliamentary union. Approximately 250 delegates are expected at the Interlaken meeting.

The secretary general said a recent poll showed that within the parliaments of France, Italy, Greece, Belgium, Switzerland, the Netherlands and Luxembourg there are absolute majorities favorable to European federation.

The proposed constituent assembly has been discussed in the British House of Commons and in the French national assembly. It also was taken up at the Congress of Europe at the Hague. Georges Bidault, former French foreign minister, proposed organization of a European assembly at the last conference of the foreign ministers of western Europe.

Coudenhove-Kalergi cited these developments as evidence of growing interest in a European federation. Two drafts of proposed constitutions probably will be submitted to the Interlaken assembly. One was prepared by a committee under the chairmanship of Francois De Menthon, former minister of France, and the other by R. W. G. Mackay, British vice president of the European parliamentary union.

Occupation Cost Heavy in Austria

VIENNA—(P)—The occupation of "liberated" Austria has cost this country $445,445,089 since the end of the war, according to Dr. George Zimmerman, Minister of Finance. Of this account $319,950,000 was for military occupation costs, $4,919,516 was for damages caused by allied military personnel, and $120,575,574 for schillings converted by the four powers when new money was issued last winter.

The Australian government has protested the payment of occupation costs, terming it neither legal nor in the interests of world peace. In a note to the Allied Council last May, the government demanded the occupying powers pay their own way in Australia. The government has the full support of the American authorities here in abolishing the occupation cost burden. The United States has been paying its own way in dollars for more than one year. The British have not drawn from their special account since January 1.

Archeological Find Is Credited to Dog

ROME — (P) — A howling dog led digger to an archeological find in Sardinia. Health Department workers oiling mosquito-breeding pools near Su Arbaraghine were attracted by the dog, Cagliari, dispatches say. They dug where the animal scratched. In a short time, they broke through to a cavern containing eight skulls and other human bones. The dispatch said the bones apparently dated from prehistoric times.

Tribute Paid to Two Ohioans For Mound Builders Studies

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(P)—The Smithsonian Institution paid tribute today to two Ohioans who pioneered in the study of prehistoric Indian mounds a century ago.

The two were Dr. Edwin Hamilton, a Chillicothe, Ohio, physician who dug into Indian earthworks as a hobby during a busy career as a country doctor, and Ephraim George Squier, a country newspaper editor.

They wrote a study called the "ancient monuments of the Mississippi valley," which the Smithsonian, in a statement, termed "epochal" and "the cornerstone of North American archeology."

The work was published by the institution in 1848.

This study, the institution said, opened up the whole field of investigation of the "mound builders"—the ancestors of the Indians found in the eastern Mississippi Valley by the first white explorers.

Dr. Davis from 1845 to 1847 surveyed nearly 100 groups of Indian earth works around Chillicothe, once the state capital.

Squier, a civil engineer by profession, spent most of his spare time working with Dr. Davis on excavation of the ancient mounds in the Ross County area. Previously he studied Indian relics in New York, Wisconsin and Iowa.

The mound builders, who once lived in the area from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, left more traces of their work in Ohio than in any other state—more than 10,000 mounds and 2,000 earth enclosures.

The best known is Serpent Mound, 1,300 feet long and in the form of a serpent, on an embankment near Locust Grove in Adams County.

Built for religious or ceremonial worship, it is the largest such monument on the continent.

A century ago, the Smithsonian said, "there was little realization that Indian history stretched thousands of years into the past, that it was the product of widely different peoples, and that there had been ebbs and surges of culture similar to those of Europe and Asia."

"Of all Indian remains the great mounds were the most conspicuous east of the Mississippi and had excited wide interest, but almost no systematic study."

Archeological work in the general area is being "greatly intensified" now to get as much information as possible, the Smithsonian said, before flood control and power projects cover parts of the region with water.

This work is being sponsored by the institution.

Political Bias Handicap to Asia

MADRAS, India —(P)— "Political Bias" of big powers is hindering Asia's economic recovery, says H. Sitarama Reddi, India's alternate delegate to the recent U.N. economic session at Ootacamund.

minister of Madras presidency, made the charge in an address here. He declared that at Ootacamund, "we found that the metropolitan countries were the real stumbling blocks to the evolution of any plan or program of economic recovery of Asia."

Reddi said the United States was interested in helping Japan's trade because she viewed the country as a potential buffer state. Referring to the white Australia policy, he predicted that in time Australia would absorb a huge Asian population to work her undeveloped hinterland.

Corn Prospects Shivel in Heat But Rains Help

Fields Planted Late Are In Most Danger; Soybeans Suffer, Too

Fayette County farmers today were feeling a little better after the showers of Sunday and Monday afternoons. But, they still were wondering just how much damage the hot and dry weather of last week did to their corn.

The rains, spotty though they were, helped. The question is how much.

Most of them agree that the early planted fields will not be hurt much, if at all.

But there is a different story for the corn not planted until later. That it will suffer is undisputed. The extent of the damage is the only question.

Some farmers say their late corn already is showing serious signs of lack of moisture and that if more rain does not come soon—and in fairly plentiful doses—the expected yield will be cut considerably.

The early corn "is made," in the opinion of most farmers. Bumper yields are confidently expected.

Ears on much of the late corn are not filling out, however, they say. Whether it is too late for a rain to help much is the subject of considerable speculation.

The spotty showers of Sunday and Monday afternoons helped some, but only time can give a definite answer.

Spring Bright Spot

The brightest spot on the county's weather chart for the season is the record for spring—by and large May was just about right for corn planting. The result was that most of the county's corn was in the ground on time.

Had the spring this year been as wet as it was last year, there would have been reason for farmers here to be more concerned over their corn prospects. On this they all agree.

As it is, there is comparatively little late corn caught by the heat and drought—and even that may have been saved by the showers of the last couple of days.

Few, if any, farmers hereabouts have indicated they feel the corn's condition warrants any change in their livestock plans.

The fate of the county's soybean crop—incidentally, one of the big quick money producers—is another question mark. It has needed rain, too. And as in the case of corn, there was some doubt if the last two day's showers came soon enough.

IOWA PROSPECTS CUT

DES MOINES, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Recent drought and hot winds probably have wiped out prospects for an all-time record Iowa corn production, a government crop expert said today.

"There has been damage, but we don't know yet the extent of it," said Leslie M. Carl, director of the Iowa crop and livestock reporting service.

"We are pretty sure the (record) prospects on Aug. 1 are not going to hold out," he added.

Carl said recent rains "can't help

Carl Franklins Back From Europe

Mrs. Carl Franklin (the former Miss Carolyn Craig) and her two sons, Craig and Sterling, are to spend the next ten days here with Mrs. Franklin's mother, Mrs. Clarence Craig.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin have just returned from a month's tour of England, Scotland, France, Germany and Switzerland. The trip, an educational field tour, was sponsored by Yale University.

Franklin went on to Norman, Okla., where he is assuming his new duties as vice president of the University of Oklahoma, after a brief visit here.

When in Stuttgart, Germany, they spent some time with Mrs. Franklin's brother, Andrew Craig, a member of the civilian staff of the occupation forces of Germany.

Mrs. Franklin said her brother planned to return home for a short visit late this fall, but expected to return to Germany.

The Franklins' two sons remained with Mrs. Franklin's mother here during their trip abroad.

Non Supporter Fined $500 Here

Arrested by Sheriff Orland Hays on a charge of non support, filed in the probate court, Pearl Self was Monday fined $500 and costs and given six months in the Dayton Workhouse.

Self was removed to the workhouse Tuesday to begin his long term in that institution.

the corn that has been damaged seriously." But he continued, the rain will help mature the corn that had not been damaged particularly.

The Aug. 1 outlook was for a yield of 646,140,000 bushels, the biggest in history. A per-acre yield of 60 bushels was forecast. The present total yield record is 634,638,000 bushels, harvested in 1946.

"We had some pretty high temperatures for 10 to 15 days this month," Carl said. "We had some pretty hot winds a few of those days."

"This was all rather disastrous to a lot of the corn."

"Some of our farmers began making silage 10 days ago. That's two to two and a half weeks earlier than usual. The farmers began making silage because the corn was drying out. They had to save the corn."

"There has been some loss, particularly in the late planted corn and the corn on sandy soil or where the top soil has been washed off. Quite a lot of that corn is gone. It is fired and burned pretty badly."

Meanwhile, from around the state came reports that the hot weather definitely reduced corn prospects. The Ottumwa, Centerville and Charles City and Mason City areas are among those reporting extensive crop damage from heat and lack of moisture.

City Teachers Meet Saturday

Plans for Year To Be Discussed

Teachers in the city schools are to gather in the high school auditorium Saturday at 10 A. M. for the customary pre-school meeting.

The meeting has several purposes, Superintendent A. B. Murray said.

First, they will be given final instructions and an outline of policies in preparation for the opening of school next Tuesday—the day after Labor Day—as has been the custom for several years. Supplies will also be distributed.

The meeting also provides a time and place for the new teachers to get acquainted with the previous members of the staffs. It also gives them an opportunity to talk over their own plans and problems.

The program will not be long, Supt. Murray said. He plans to give the teachers the outline of plans for the coming year.

Two or three teachers who have taken special education work during the summer also probably will give resumes. One of these is expected to be Leo Whiteside, principal of the Sunnyside School. He took a course in elementary school administration at Columbia University in New York this summer.

Miss Nita Gullick, who came here from England to teach the first grade in the Eastside School,

Dodgers Stretch Lead By Beating Cardinals

BY RALPH RODEN
(By the Associated Press)
"Bench strength," that's one of the reasons Burt Shotton's ferocious gentlemen lead the National League today.

Shotton's front-running Brooklyn Dodgers are deep in reserves and the canny Brook pilot is employing his substitutes to the utmost advantage.

Second stringers enjoyed a field day at the expense of the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday as the Dodgers took a doubleheader, 6-5 and 6-1, to increase their lead to a game and a half over the runner-up Boston Braves.

Trailing, 5-2, going into the ninth inning of the first game before 33,508 fans, the reserves swung into action and sparked a four-run rally that enabled the Brooks to win.

No Help Needed

The Dodgers didn't have to call for help in the second game as lefty Joe Hatten held the Cards to five hits in racking up his 11th victory.

The setbacks dumped the Cards into fourth place, two percentage points behind the Pittsburgh Pirates who moved into third as a result of their 2-1 triumph over the Boston Braves in a night game at Pittsburgh.

Only three and a half games also separate the top four teams in the American League's pennant chase.

Runner-up New York Yankees moved to within a game of Boston's pace-setting Boston Red Sox, who were idle yesterday, by beating the Detroit Tigers, 3-0, in a night game at the Yankee Stadium. Frank Shea stopped the Tigers on one hit. Old Satchel Does It.

Cleveland's third place Indians pulled to within a game and a half of the Red Sox as Satchel Paige pitched the Tribe to a 10-1, seven-hit victory over the Senators in a night game at Washington.

Joe Gordon sparked Cleveland's 13-hit attack against four pitchers with a triple, double and single. Somebody asked Bill Summers what he thought of Paige. And Bill shot back:

"How can you rate him? There are few better pitchers in baseball today. Maybe there aren't any. And there are few with more stuff."

This was Art Passarella's opinion: "The old boy's around the plate all the time and calling balls and strikes for him's a breeze. There's a rocking chair if ever there was one."

With a packed house of 28,058 watching, Paige won his sixth victory of the season and his fourth in five starts. He allowed only three hits until the eighth inning.

Rae Scarborough, Washington's ace, left the game after pitching to two Indians because of a pulled muscle in his right leg. He was charged with the loss.

At Philadelphia, the last place Chicago White Sox scores five runs in the ninth inning with two out to upset the fourth place Athletics, 9-6.

Softball Playoff Set for Next Week

If everything goes according to plan, the Universals, winners of the first round of the Recreation League schedule, and New Holland's Drakes, winners of the second round, will start battling it out for the league championship next Monday evening.

Fred Pierson, the recreation director, said Tuesday that tentative plans had been made for the first game of the two-out-of-three series to be played as a climax to the Labor Day holiday.

The ace pitchers of each team are away on fishing trips now, Pierson explained. But both Bill Hobbie of the Universals and Joe Drake of the New Holland crew are expected back by the end of this week. Their absence explains why the playoff was not scheduled for this week—neither team would go into such an important series without the services of its main moundsmen.

Whether any of the Recreation League teams will play in the softball tournament at Wilmington next week remained conjectural. However, the odds are that the Universals, winners of the Sabina tournament and the $300 pot last week, and the Drakes are expected to enter. It was considered doubtful if they would take part in the Leesburg tournament which is being considered for this week—just not enough time to get ready is the only reason.

Amateurs Paced By Stranahan

Fourth Major Title Sought by Ohioan

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 31—(AP)—Old man Pressure and a wobbly, Bermuda-greened course appeared as major factors to the 128 players in the second round of the national amateur golf tournament today.

Fewer than a dozen players involved in the 82 first round matches could look back to sub-par performances on the 6,617-yard par 70 Memphis Country Club course.

Frank Stranahan, the muscular man from Toledo, Ohio, who is seeking to add the American crown to his British and Canadian prizes, had the easiest go of any of the hotshots and was paired today against Charles Dudley of Greenville, S. C.

Stranahan eliminated the veteran Frank Strafaci, five-time metropolitan champion from Flushing, N. Y., 4 and 3. Dudley eased by Hiram Chamberlain of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., 2 and 1.

The colorful defending champion Robert (Skee) Riegel, who has Robert Clark of Edgewater, Colo., to deal with in the second round, eliminated Richard Ewert 1-up when the Santa Ana entry failed by a break of the ball to sink a short putt on the eighteenth green.

Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., Willie Turnesa of Elmford, N. Y., 58-year-old Charles (Chick) Evans of Chicago, Stanley (Ted) Bishop of Islington, Mass., and Richard Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., each a former national champ, also continued as threats.

Ward, who won the banner in 1939 and again in 1941, rallied on the home stretch to beat 17-year-old James (Billy) Key of Columbus, Ga., 2 and 1. Key was one-up through 14 holes.

Bishop, titlist in 1946, dropped Edmund Gravely of Rocky Mount, N. C., 2 and 1; Turnesa outlasted Sam Kirkpatrick, 1 up, and Evans trounced Herbert Smith of Orlando, Fla., by a single hole. Chapman had a first round bye.

Softball Tourney At Semi-Finals

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 31—(AP)—Youngstown General Fireproofing and the winner of a battle between Akron Finnermore & Watering and Mansfield Gorman-Rupp will meet tonight in the finals of the Ohio softball tournament.

Youngstown advanced last night by defeating Mansfield, 3 to 0, while Akron earned a semi-final berth by ousting Hamilton Weiland Cafe, 4 to 2, in a 12 inning contest.

Akron, in the other game played last night, eliminated Youngstown Merchants, 1 to 0.

Buck Football Outlook Brightens As 59 Hopefuls Get Set for Season

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31—(AP)—Ohio State's hopeful Bucks turned out today—59 strong, to get the uniforms and stuff they'll need for the western conference gridiron war.

They spent the morning trying out their equipment, and in the afternoon they pose for newspaper photographers. After that—until the whistle blows for the opening game—the Buckeyes will be working out every day in an effort to produce a better eleven than last year's.

Coach Wes Fesler told sportswriters at a press luncheon yesterday he and his squad anxiously await the opening whistle. Fesler said he had been in contact with a number of his players this summer and every one was eager to get under way.

"If that's true it will really be a big help," he said.

Tempo of Blue Lion Practice Stepped Up As Weather Cools

With the easing of the heat, the tempo of the workouts of the Blue Lion footballers is being stepped up.

Coach Fred Pierson, who has been taking it easy with the nearly 40 hopefuls since they started practice a week ago, said Tuesday that the first scrimmage probably would be held Wednesday evening.

Up to now, most of the two-day sessions at Gardner Park have been devoted to conditioning workouts, such as calisthenics and running, and drills on the fundamentals, such as blocking, tackling and shifting. Position and stance have been emphasized. Actual contact work to put the principals in to practice has been conspicuous by its absence—last week.

Pierson, who is developing the line, said several of the newcomers this season show considerable promise, but still need a good deal of polishing. Frelan VanMeter, a veteran from last year, and Dick O'Brien, who was an SCO League standout at either tackle or end, are the cornerstones of the line-building.

Assistant Coach Steve Lewis is handling the backfield. Right now, it is made up of Bill Campbell, Bill Smith, just back from Camp Atterbury, Joe Brandon and Gene Sagar. Backing them up are such boys as Charles Dray, Jim Aleshire, George Phillips, Dave Looker and Bob Craig.

Both coaches made it plain that the squad is still undergoing changes. They still are trying to fit the boys in the positions for which they are best suited.

The coaches agree that the backfield prospects were good. The line is the question mark; it suffered most from graduations.

A shuffle of the backfield is under consideration, the coaches admitted. The pile-driving Brandon may be shifted from the fullback post he has held for the last two years to halfback with blocking his principal function. Sagar, if he remains in the backfield, is working out some in the fullback spot. Campbell still is at quarterback and Smith at the other halfback. Sagar, who was a regular end at the start of last season but was shifted to the backfield frequently as a replacement, may go back to end if he can be spared, Pierson said.

Bob Craig, knocked out of football by an operation last year, had been counted on to fill the shoes of the elusive Chuck Wyatt, who was graduated in June. But he twisted a knee at the start of the practice season and is still taking it easy. With Aleshire, Looker and Phillips Krall, once known as the "Toledo Tornado," might fill a big gap in the Ohio State lineup this year. Krall wrote that his knee, injured late in the 1946 season and later operated upon, is feeling better all the time. He says he's ready to rip off plenty of yardage this fall.

When he heard of Krall's improved condition, Fesler said he switched Mike Cannavino back to his former post at wing, "so we'll have our two best runners in the game at the same time." Both Mike and Jerry were at tailback in the spring drills when Jerry wasn't in his best form.

Additions of Tom Watson and sophomores Jerry Manz and Bill Trautwein to the first wave also will be a shot in the arm for Ohio State. Watson is expected to resume his duties at regular right end where he performed in 1945. He spent one year in the army and last season was ineligible due to a scholastic slip-up made before he donned khaki.

Trautwein, 22 years old and weighing 235 pounds, is expected to oust Jack Wilson from the right tackle slot. Bill entered Ohio University where his dad is basketball coach, after leaving the service in 1946. He came to Ohio State last fall, and again had to play from ball because of the eligibility rules on transfer students.

Prisoner Parole Is Given Support

BOSTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—Paroling prisoners to reduce crime was advocated at the annual congress of correction here today.

Dr. Alfred C. Schnur of Miami University, Ohio, said "the records show that prisoners released on parole are less likely to commit new crimes after release than those who serve out their sentences in jail."

He quoted a five-year study made by the University of Wisconsin.

Utah Open Tourney Won by Mangrum

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 31—(AP)—Dapper Lloyd Mangrum, the Chicago links ace, boosted his margin as leading pro golf tournament money winner yesterday by taking top honors in the $12,500

Utah open in a playoff match. Mangrum toured the tricky-greened Fort Douglas course in three-under-par 69 to down George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa., who carded 71 in the 18-hole playoff. The extra match was called after the two tied Sunday with totals of 275 after 72-holes of regulation play.

Campaign Costs Expected To Set Another Record

Limit on Spending Under Law Likely to Be Stretched Again

BY EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—In step with most other costs, this year's presidential campaign probably will hit a record peak well above $22,000,000.

So says Senator Hatch (D-N.M.), an expert on such costs. Hatch is the father of the so-called "clean-politics law" of 1939. It places a $3,000,000 limit on annual campaign expenditures by any national party and a $5,000 limit upon the amount any individual can contribute to one political organization.

But during the 1944 and 1940 presidential campaigns some $22,000,000 was reported spent on each one.

"Costs of the campaign this year are bound to be higher," Hatch told a reporter.

He cited higher costs of hotel bills, printing, traveling, advertising and radio time.

Declaring that "obviously the Hatch act is full of loopholes as far as limiting political expenditures is concerned," the New Mexico senator added:

"Personally I'd like to see the act amended to plug these loopholes. The limit should be broad enough and liberal enough so that it could be enforced."

But Hatch is leaving this job to other lawmakers. He is retiring voluntarily from the Senate at the end of this year.

Furthermore, Hatch said the definite limit on expenditures was not his idea. It was added by the Senate during his battle for some law to prevent "any party from perpetuating itself in government by political activity or influence through government workers."

"The expenditures limits always have been evaded and they always will be until revised," Hatch said.

Both major parties have utilized special organizations, such as candidates backing clubs, independent committees, and the various state committees to spend more than the $3,000,000 annual limit. Each group is entitled to the limit.

Hatch says this is legal but in his view, open to question.

"For instance, there is little point to a $5,000 limit upon individual contributions," he said, "when a voter can give this to the national committee, each of the independent committees and the 48 state committees."

But Hatch believes the "clean politics law" has been "more effective than the public realizes."

"I think most of those abuses we heard so much about when millions of persons were getting government checks through relief programs have disappeared," he said.

The law prohibits government workers from contributing to political campaigns or taking part in politics. Officials who attempt to use such influence can be fined and sent to jail. Workers can lose their jobs for violations.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

AS THE INQUEST continued Beatrice Lippincott gave evidence of the arrival of deceased. He had registered as Enoch Arden, Cape-town.

"Did deceased produce a ration book?"

"No, sir."

"Did you ask him for one?"

"Not at first. I did not know how long he was staying."

"But you did eventually ask him?"

"Yes, sir. He arrived on the Friday and on Saturday I said if he was staying more than five days would he please let me have his ration book."

"What did he say to that?"

"He said he would give it to me."

"But he did not actually do so."

"No."

"He did not say that he had lost it? Or had not got one?"

"Oh no. He just said, 'I'll look it out and bring it along.'"

"Miss Lippincott, did you, on the night of Saturday, overhear a certain conversation?"

With a good deal of elaborate explanation as to the necessity she was under of visiting No. 4, Beatrice Lippincott told her tale. The Coroner guided her astutely.

"Thank you. Did you mention this conversation you had overheard to anybody?"

"Yes, I told Mr. Rowley Cloade."

"Why did you tell Mr. Cloade?"

"I thought he ought to know," Beatrice flushed.

A tall thin man, Mr. Gaythorne, rose and asked permission to put a question.

"In the course of the conversation between the deceased and Mr. David Hunter did the deceased at any time mention definitely that he himself was Robert Underhay?"

"No—no—he didn't."

"In fact he spoke of Robert Underhay as though Robert Underhay was quite another person?"

"Yes—yes, he did."

"Thank you, Mr. Coroner, that was all I wanted to get clear."

Beatrice Lippincott stood down and Rowley Cloade was called.

He confirmed that Beatrice had repeated the story to him and then gave his account of his interview with the deceased.

"His last words to you were, 'I don't think you'll prove that without my co-operation.' That—being the fact that Robert Underhay was still alive."

"That's what he said, yes. And he laughed, did he? What did you take those words to mean?"

"Well—I just thought he was trying to get me to make him an offer, but afterwards I got thinking—"

"Yes, Mr. Cloade—but what you thought afterwards is hardly relevant. Shall we put it that as a result of that interview you set about trying to find some person who was acquainted with the late Robert Underhay? And, that, with certain help, you were successful?"

Rowley nodded.

"That's right."

"What time was it when you left the deceased?"

"As nearly as I can tell it was five minutes to nine."

"What made you fix on that time?"

"As I went along the street I heard the nine o'clock news pips through an open window."

"Did the deceased mention at what time he was expecting this client?"

"He said 'At any minute.'"

"He did not mention any name?"

"No."

"David Hunter!"

There was just a faint buzz as the inhabitants of Warrimley Vale craned their necks to look at the tall thin better-looking young man who stood bitterly facing the Coroner.

The preliminaries went rapidly. The Coroner continued.

"You went to see the deceased on Saturday evening?"

"Yes. I received a letter from him asking for assistance and stating he had known my sister's first husband in Africa."

"You have got that letter?"

"No, I don't keep letters."

"You have heard the account given by Beatrice Lippincott of your conversation with the deceased. Is that a true account?"

"Quite untrue. The deceased spoke of knowing my late brother-in-law, complained of his own bad luck and of having come down in the world, and begged for some financial assistance which, as is usual, he was quite confident of being able to repay."

"Did he tell you that Robert Underhay was still alive?"

David smiled.

"Certainly not. He said, 'If Robert were still alive I know he would help me.'"

"That is quite different from what Beatrice Lippincott tells us?"

"Eavesdroppers," said David, "usually hear only a portion of what goes on and frequently get the whole thing wrong owing to supplying the missing details from their own fertile imaginations."

Beatrice frowned angrily and exclaimed, "Well, I never—" The Coroner said repressively, "Silence, please."

"Now, Mr. Hunter, did you visit the deceased again on the night of Tuesday—"

"No, I did not."

"You have heard Mr. Rowley Cloade say that the deceased expected a visitor?"

"He may have expected a visitor. I thought that was quite enough for him. There was no proof that he'd ever known Robert Underhay."

My sister, since she inherited a large income from her husband, has been the target of every beggarly letter writer and every sponger in the neighborhood."

Quietly he let his eyes pass over the assembled Cloades.

"Mr. Hunter, will you tell us where you were on the evening of Tuesday?"

"Find out," said David.

"Mr. Hunter!" The Coroner rapped the table. "That is a most foolish and ill-advised thing to say."

"Why should I tell you where I was, and what I was doing? Time enough for that when you accuse me of murdering the man."

"If you persist in that attitude it may come to that sooner than you think. Do you recognize this, Mr. Hunter?"

Leaning forward, David took the gold cigarette lighter into his hand. His face was puzzled. Handing it back, he said slowly:

"Yes, it's mine."

"When did you have it last?"

"I missed it—" He paused.

"Yes, Mr. Hunter?" The Coroner's voice was suave.

Gaythorne fidgeted, seemed about to speak. But David was too quick for him.

"I had it last on Friday—Friday morning. I don't remember seeing it since."

Mr. Gaythorne rose.

"With your permission, Mr. Coroner. You visited the deceased on Saturday evening. Might you not have left the lighter there then?"

"I might have, I suppose," David said slowly. "I certainly don't remember seeing it after Friday—" He added: "Where was it found?"

The Coroner said:

"We shall go into that later. You can stand down now, Mr. Hunter."

David moved slowly back to his seat. He bent his head and whispered to Rowley Cloade.

"Major Porter."

Hemming and hawing a little, Major Porter took the stand. He stood there, an erect soldierly figure, as though on parade. Only the way he moistened his lips showed the intense nervousness from which he was suffering.

"You are George Douglas Porter, late Major of the Royal African Rifles?"

"Yes."

"How well did you know Robert Underhay?"

In a parade ground voice Major Porter barked out places and dates.

"You have viewed the body of the deceased?"

"Yes."

"Can you identify that body?"

"Yes. It is the body of Robert Underhay."

A buzz of excitement went round the Court.

"You state that positively and without the least doubt?"

"I do."

"There is no possibility of your being mistaken?"

"None."

"Thank you, Major Porter. Mrs. Gordon Cloade."

Goes to Holland To Be Bridesmaid

PITTSBURGH —(AP)—Margaret Cartwright, pretty 23-year-old assistant bank librarian, is going to Europe to be a bridesmaid for a Dutch girl she's never seen. Two years ago Margaret began corresponding with Lizeke de Brauw, daughter of Baron Albert de Brauw, one-time mayor of The Hague. Their international friendship developed after an American soldier told Margaret that Lizeke would like to correspond with someone in the states.

Since then, they've found a lot of mutual interests. For one thing, Margaret likes art—and Lizeke has been working in an art museum. A few days ago Lizeke wrote that she's getting married and wouldn't it be lovely if Margaret could be a bridesmaid? It would, Margaret agreed. She secured a three-month leave of absence from the Peoples First National Bank to make the trip.

Some factories in Sweden which were moved to caves during the war continue to operate there, because expenses for heat and maintenance are small.

Band Excursion Plans Laid at YBM Meeting

Tickets To Go On Sale This Week—Money for Band Being Raised

The drive for funds to send the Washington C. H. High School Band to Cleveland for its half-time show at the Browns-Rockets game September 26 was opened at a picnic dinner meeting of the Young Businessmen's Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening. The men hope to raise the greater part of this amount from small individual contributions.

The YBM met at Craig's Cedarhurst cottage where the hamburger supper was cooked over the outside grill.

Other items of YBM business concerned the special excursion train to the Browns-Rockets game, the formation of a booster club, arrangements for this year's Halloween party and blood typing.

According to the report of Fred Woodard, YBM treasurer, $365 had already been collected and promised for the WHS Band transportation fund.

Goal for the Band-to-Cleveland fund was set at $1,000. Eli Craig was appointed chairman of the committee to raise this amount. It was the consensus of the meeting, since sending the band on this trip was of interest to many in community that it should be done with small contributions from many individuals.

Campaign On Now

The $1000 drive is in full swing this week with Frank Baker and Richard Davis the other members appointed to the fund raising committee.

Contributions to the fund will be accepted by any of the committee members, they can be sent to the Chamber of Commerce office in care of Fred Rost, or they can be sent to the YBM in care of Fred Woodard.

A report on the special excursion train was given by Perse Harlow. Tickets for the excursion will go on sale Friday and Saturday of this week. Arrangements are being made for establishing a downtown booth to sell them, Harlow said.

Good for Game, too

The tickets will be in three parts, one part good for a place in a block of seats in the lower deck at about the 35-yard line and the other two for passage both ways on the train trip. The block of 500 seats has been set aside for the excursionists.

Special rates for the train have been arranged through Joseph Casey of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the round trip fare will be $10 including the ticket to the game.

Other members of the train committee are Victor Smith and Fuller Jefferson.

Boosters Clubs

Formation of a boosters club for athletic activities was discussed and on a motion by Craig, it was decided to direct the committee to hold a public meeting for everyone interested. This committee is the same as the train committee.

Victor Smith, in charge of the Halloween committee reported that no definite plans had been made but that he was ready to go into action on the party when the time came.

Secretary Harlow reported that the blood typing program for which the YBM has accepted responsibility would begin this fall.

During the meeting several responses to invitations to speak before the YBM were read. Notes had been sent to Bucky Walters, Wesley Fesler, Paul Brown, George Bird, Mike Peppe and Jimmy Rhodes. Replies have been received from all but the last two.

William Clift, WHS band director, explained the arrangements on the band transportation. The band has to be in Cleveland at 10 A. M. Sunday. Band and chaperones will have to leave Washington C. H. by bus at about 4:30 A. M. Since the

Historical Displays At Ohio State Fair

The Ohio State Museum will show a complete library of every known cook book in existence including "An American Domestic Cookery Book" by "A Lady" of ancient vintage.

In comparison with a shining new Youngstown kitchen in an adjoining booth, the Museum is also displaying a pioneer kitchen from which they are distributing sample recipes from the old-time cook book.

By popular request Mrs. A. P. Rosset of Westerville, again is operating her antique spinning wheel and loom, creating beautiful goods.

Officers Here To Quiz Pair Of Burglars

Two Franklin Youths Now in Jail Here Admit Crimes

More burglaries have been admitted by Richard Stacey Shockley, 18, and Vernon Lynch, 17, of Franklin, who are being held in the county jail here while the investigation continues.

A third man, Vincent Doliboa, also of Franklin, is still in Mt. Carmel Hospital with a fractured vertebra, and will be confined there for sometime.

The three were injured in a wreck west of this city while leaving here after burglarizing the Brandenburg Garage August 24, and they also entered the Merriweather Garage.

Lynch had been taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital as result of a fractured ankle and other injuries, but he was brought to the county jail by Sheriff Orland Hays, and will face burglary charges filed against him in juvenile court.

Shockley pleaded guilty to a breaking and entering charge and is in the county jail with bond fixed at $1,000.

Police Chief Everett Downing and Deputy Sheriff Floyd Foote, questioned Lynch and Shockley here Monday, and both admitted various burglaries, including five in Wilmington the night of August 21, and one in Warren County.

Officers believe that still other burglaries in various places will be admitted by the pair.

As soon as he is able to move, Doliboa will be brought from the hospital to the county jail here to await court action.

Officers from Warren County were expected here Tuesday to question the pair in the jail here.

Change in Income Tax Law Explained

Thomas A. Gallagher, collector of internal revenue, has called attention to the provisions of the new income tax law regarding credit for dependents which appears to be confusing to some citizens as the result of letters of inquiry recently received.

It appears to be generally known that the new law raises the credit for a dependent from $500.00 to $600.00.

However, the law did not change the tests for determining dependency which remain the same as formerly, that is: the dependent must receive over one-half of his support from the taxpayer and cannot have a gross income of over $500.00 for the year regardless of his age.

This may affect many minors and college students who have worked during the vacation period and would have been classed as dependents, but who will be denied such classification by reason of earnings over $500.00 (not $600.00) during the current year.

$23,000 Received From Gas Tax Fund

County Auditor Ulric T. Acton Tuesday received $23,000 from the state gasoline fund, to be used on the highways of the county.

Of the $23,000 the sum of $19,000 is for county roads and $400 goes to the road maintenance fund of each township.

So far the city has not received its share of the distribution, which is sent direct to the city instead of to the county auditor to be turned over to the city.

Local Option Vote In 1949

No Issue On Ballot Here in November

A recent newspaper article to effect that the Women's Christian Temperance Union, The Ohio Council of Churches and the Ohio Temperance League are backing the circulation of petitions for a law providing county-wide local option in Ohio, brought inquiry as to whether the proposal would be submitted to the voters at the November election.

It is explained that the petitions, not only being circulated in Fayette County but all over Ohio, must contain a minimum of 70,000 names of voters and the petitions will be filed with the Secretary of State sometime this fall.

The petitions will then be delivered to the Ohio State Legislature which has four months to enact a law requested in the petition and if, at the end of the four months, the legislature has not acted favorably, then other petitions submitting the matter to the voters at the November, 1949 election, may be circulated. These petitions also must contain a minimum of 70,000 votes, it is explained.
